New BlueParrott Roadwarrior B150-TK wireless Bluetooth cell phone headset for truck drivers

Rollinsford, NH – October 5, 2006 – Addressing the demand in the trucking industry for wireless headsets that block road and engine noise, VXI Corporation has introduced the BlueParrott® Roadwarrior™ B150-TK wireless Bluetooth headset for Bluetooth enabled cellular phones. This product is specifically designed to handle the challenges faced by truck drivers using cell phones. The noise-canceling microphone effectively blocks road and engine noise. The longwearing comfort and stability of over-the-head styling and professional grade durability equips the B150TK headset to withstand life on the road.

Simply pair the B150TK headset with your Bluetooth enabled cell phone (or Bluetooth enabled computer) and enjoy a wireless connection of up to 33 feet.

“Not only does the BlueParrott Roadwarrior B150-TK wireless headset give drivers comfort and greater freedom of movement by letting them be completely hands free, but it incorporates unsurpassed microphone performance giving them professional sounding calls free from the distraction of background noise. Now drivers won’t need to yell to be heard over the engine when fueling. If you've ever tried those tiny over-the ear-headsets, you know that not only do they sound terrible, but also they pinch, hurt and fall off! Our headsets are ergonomically designed to fit comfortably, and securely on your head,” said Lisa Keslar, Director of Marketing, VXI Corporation.

The BlueParrott B150TK includes the headset and both the vehicle accessory charging cord and an AC power adaptor for the wall. This makes it easy to charge the headset in the truck or at home.

The BlueParrott Roadwarrior B150-TK headset is offered at a highly competitive suggested retail price of $124.50 and is backed by an industry-leading two-year warranty.
